

Website name: A Study Abroad Scrapbook

Topic:

- It is a personal blog website for users to explore the experiences and memories from my study abroad journey. The website will document travels, places visited, cultural experiences, challenges, and personal growth during my time in Italy. Many photos, videos, and interactive maps will keep the page interactive. The blog goal is to inspire other students and individuals who are considering studying abroad and also a personal journal for myself to look back on. Users will be able to comment on blog posts, share their own experiences, and create accounts to save their favorite articles and resources.

Page names:

- Homepage: Florence
- Around Italy
- Around Europe & Africa
- Photo Gallery
- Study Abroad Tips & Resources
- FAQ

A description of the data you will be storing, manipulating and viewing:

- The website will store user account information, including email addresses, usernames, and passwords for login. Only registered users can interact with specific features, like saving articles or commenting. Users will be able to interact with articles and comment on posts. Only the website owner will be allowed to add, edit, or delete posts, resources, and user comments.